

Large scale wind power for densely populated areas

The structure can be the tallest in the world and provide many attractions, including mini-train rides and more.

The project can bring a significant impact on public opinion regarding the potential of wind power, and create global demand for change.

