This area comprises of playful culture for ages. Since the Palais Theatre, Luna Park until this Land Art, it will be the next entertaining place for all generations with the combination of recreation and exercise facilities. Various texture pavements can sync with users' physical needs for more effective exercise and create extraordinary walking experiences. Visitors can enjoy magnificent views and nature, promoting good health and helping generate electricity simultaneously by traveling around in the wheels. These wheels were designed in various styles to ensure all generations can enjoy using them; they can also be adapted with bicycles. Electromagnetic components were embedded in the edges of the wheels and rails. When the wheels start moving, they will generate electricity that will be stored in the battery located in the tower for further use.
