

SOURCE IN THE DESERT

The project was developed on the basis of a competitive task for an attractive location in Masdar City, Abu Dhabi. Under the terms of the competition, it is proposed to create a cult work of art not only aesthetically attractive, but also using renewable energy technology as a means of creative expression and ensuring the production of energy on site in accordance with the general plan of the city.

Masdar is the Arabic word source. The idea of the project returns to one of the oldest sources of energy used by man - the energy of falling water. Fountain in the form of a small hydroelectric station.