

MASMENT

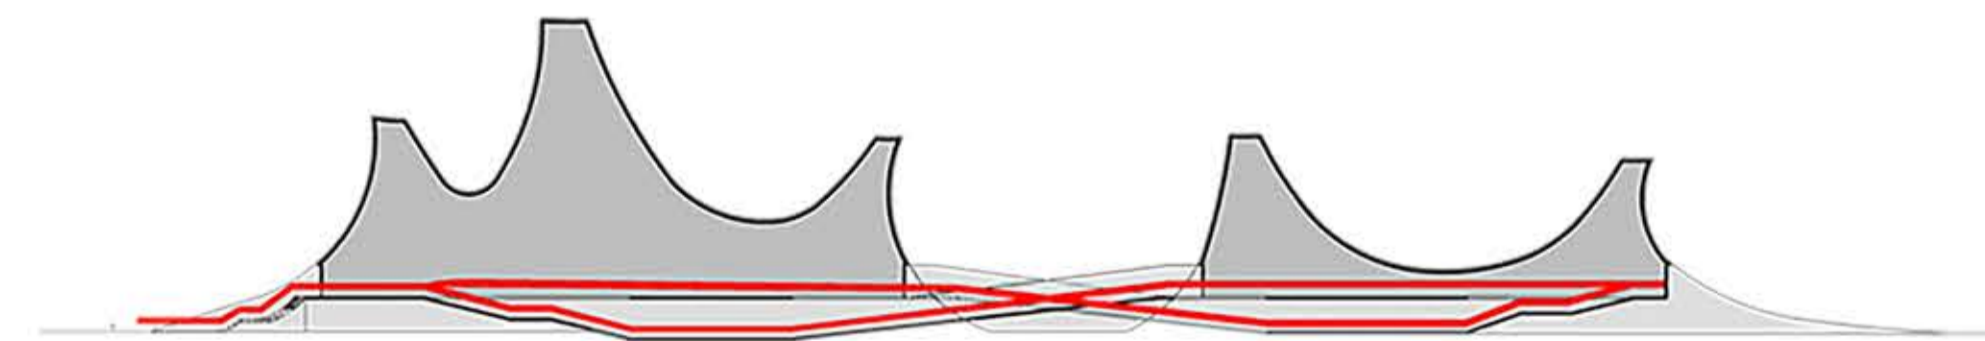

The nature around us is a source of inspiration and artwork. The desert sand dunes and the curved lines on which they form are a work of art. On the other hand, all creatures are an art work that should not be ignored. Any creature can be a good pattern for design. Among the creatures of the camel is the inventory that can store food for several months. The design allow to produce energy and save it like a camel. Many aquatic animals use gills to breathe, which is a means to survive. The layout on the shell of the building is designed to absorb the energy of the sun. Water means life. The existence and quality of the waves depends on the water's existence. The existence of water causes the development of different regions. Man has always been looking for a shelter for himself. It builds the shelter from the nature and environment surrounding the material. Fish, aquatic animals and humans are each in pursuit of harmony with their surroundings.
