

Nature

Préservation of nature and green spaces

Solar power

solar panels in the form of artificial palms to stimulate the greenery that capture the sun's rays to turn them into electrical energy to power the city, the palm leaves cover the whole surface so they catch the rays when the sun is in the east, the middle or the west

Wind power

the leaves of palm trees move under the effect of the wind and consequently they produce electricity by a mechanical movement

