

Dali's Elephants

"In contrast to the passive, impartial, contemplative, and esthetic attitude of irrational phenomena [an illusion or a subconscious relation], stand the active, systematic, organisational and congruent attitude of these same phenomena [reality and logical applications] considered as associative, partial, and significant events in the authentic domain of our immediate and practical experience of life."

Salvador Dali, 1935

