

MOVING SHADOWS

The giant wheels turn slowly in the sky. The wheels are equipped with leaf-like flexible photovoltaic panels.

They leave intertwined lights and shadows on the ground.

Wheels are mounted on smooth slides, photovoltaic panels are mounted on random steerable connecting rods, and wind can make them rotate randomly and freely, so the rotating direction of the wheels is changeable.

The shadows cast are interwoven with the shadows of plants on the ground, forming dreamlike changes every moment.

