

Bula Sun

Bula is the fijian word for hello, but it also translates directly to “life”. Therefore the meaning of this common greeting is to wish someone good life and health. Bula Sun aims to promote a sustainable source of both solar and water collection while remaining respectful to the local culture. The people of Fiji are known as a sea faring culture. Bula Sun uses the sails of the Fijian sailors and the natural shape of ocean waves as inspiration to capture rain water and solar power.

While Bula Sun is meant to take offer the aesthetics of the culture it is also mean to be built within budget. Using off the shelf parts, Bula Sun is designed to be repaired and maintained without complex supply chains.

Site Location

