Design description:

Burning the man and the temple has always been the most important tradition of the Burning Man. We believe that burning is not the end of this activity, and ash may be a new beginning. We plan to organize tourists to build toilets using the ash left and the garbage on the site. The ash will be burned again to get harder during the process of construction. Also, this action reopens the scene of burning in Burning Man.

By this means, tourists can enjoy the joy of cooperation and construction and can achieve the purpose of environmental protection and leaving no trace.
