

The capability of purification of every single structure would be equivalent to 1200 trees per year, providing pure air to the world.

The structures are equipped with sensors that monitor air quality and are self sustainable since they function with solar energy.