

precipitous promontories

(R E M E M B R A N C E O F T H E A N T H R O P O C E N E)

Ambitious in scale—towering over the plains at 60 meters each—these skyscrapers are meant to be a symbol of duality: of the past and future and of the narratives revolving around the planet we squandered versus the planet we can still hope to preserve for future generations to come.

