

Balance Design

As a result from the design strategies KUA provides a complete cycle to the food and the energy feeding the Fly ranch, the whole intervention is connected by the paths that are generated all over the site, and the paths are the guidelines that connect all the electric energy from the project to the individual modules.

Modules

KUA also has smaller modules that are designed to be placed across Fly Ranch. The modules utilize the same cover design to generate energy and provide shade to the users. The interior of the modules can have different uses such as bike racks, hammocks, Charging stations or lockers.

