

MAIN BUILDING INTERIOR

The interior features a fire pit representing our mother earth, transformation, and looking inward. Around the fire is a tiered seating area that can serve as an area to facilitate group discussions. The walls are finished with Adobe, a traditional Native American style of building. The opening in the roof allows for air flow and also represents access to the divine within all of us.

MAIN BUILDING EXTERIOR

The exterior of the building will be built with aircrete. Aircrete blocks make up the foundation for our structure. Aircrete is a mixture of concrete and foam that is extremely lightweight, weather resistant, unharmed by moisture, durable, insect proof, fireproof, AND has incredible thermal properties. The outside wall that shapes the courtyard area will consist of rammed earth. It also serves as a wind barrier.
