

When looking closely at point B, it reminded us of something

Take off the yellow overlay to see it better. That shape looks so familiar

Of course. That's how Coyote jumps when he's hunting.

As time passes & humans cease to use the facility, the glass will begin to break and dust will quietly sift in. Drifts will cover the outside, and it will become... a mountain. In 6020, archeologists will excavate and find untold treasures within.

