

January 2022
January 2020, the unit has just been built. Soon, its potential will be activated.

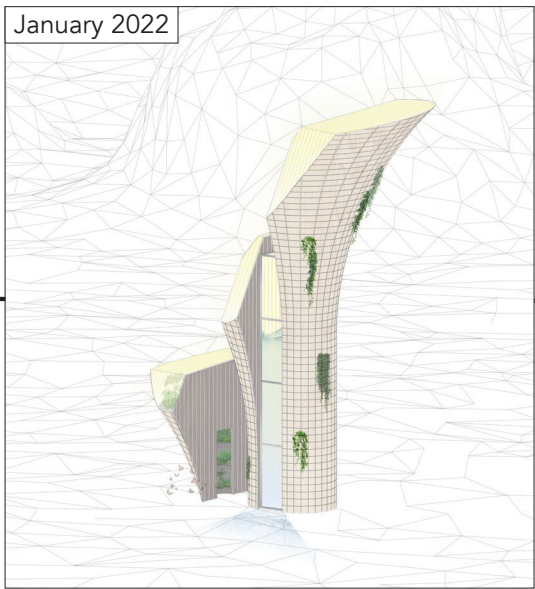

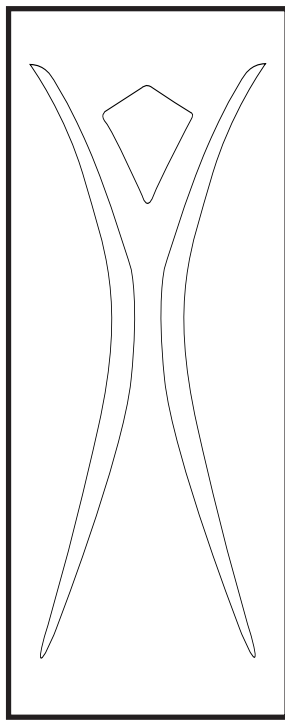

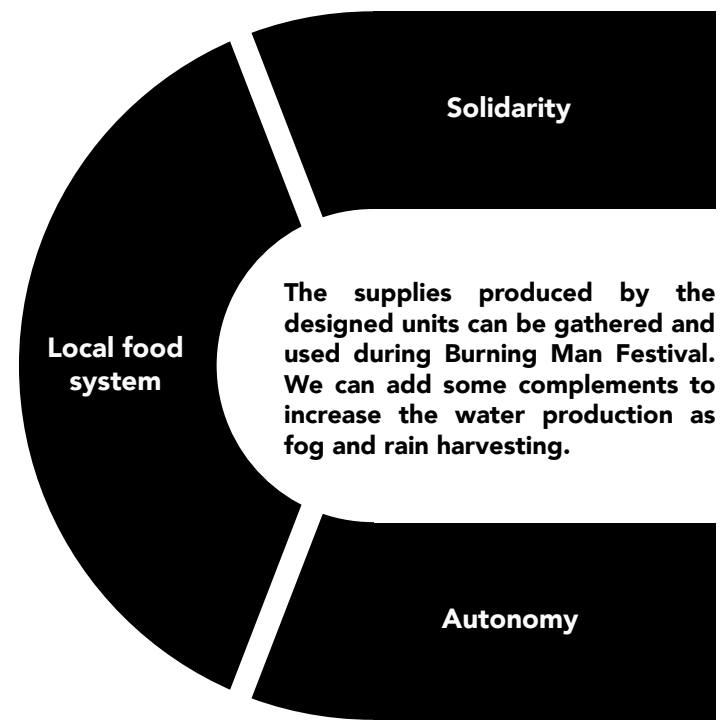

May 2022
November 2022, Clarisse has arrived and has started to build her house with wooden cleats. She wants observe nature around the unit.

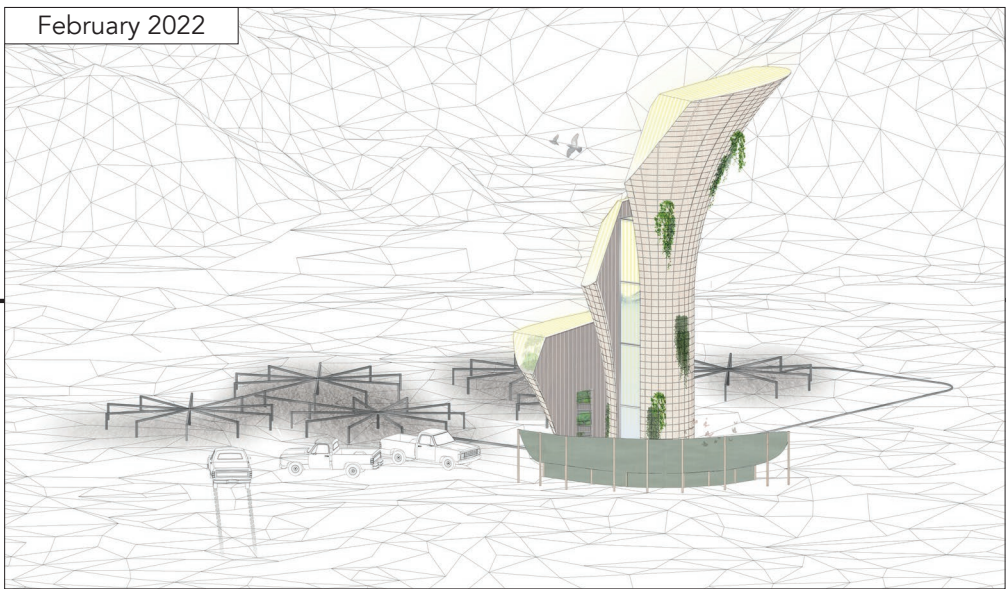

November 2022
Clarisse has planted some trees to observe the impact of the unit on biodiversity.

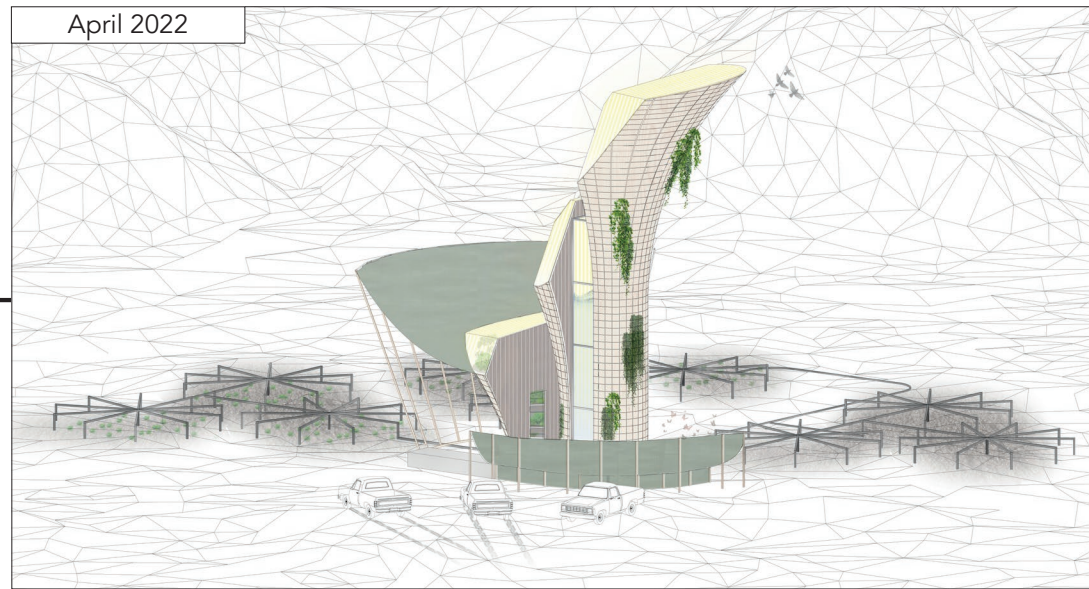

May 2023
May 2023, after one year spent on the site, she decides to leave. Her trees muted and can now resist to desert drought. She will share this discovery with her NGO.

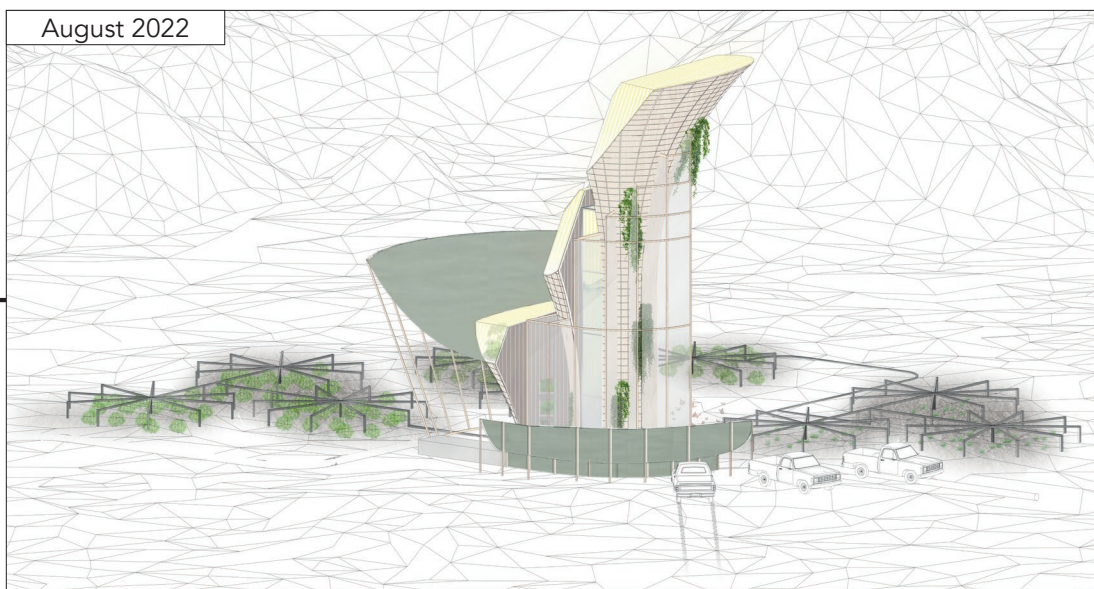

January 2020, the unit will be prepared to serve Burning Man.

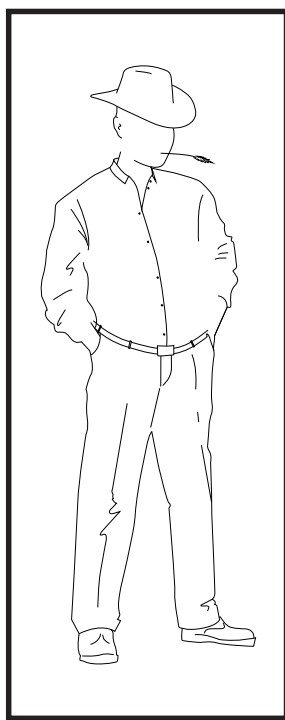

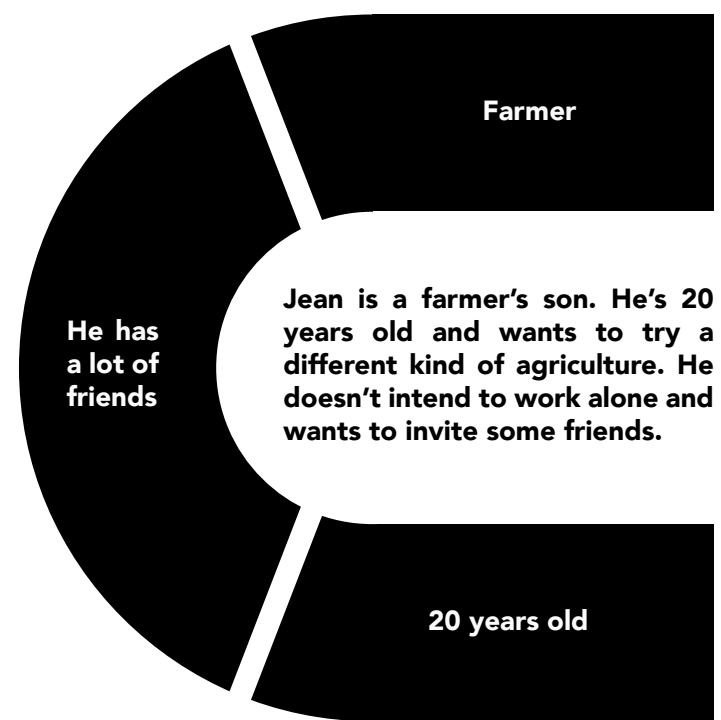

February 2022, rain collector and plantation area are added to the structure to increase the production of supplies.

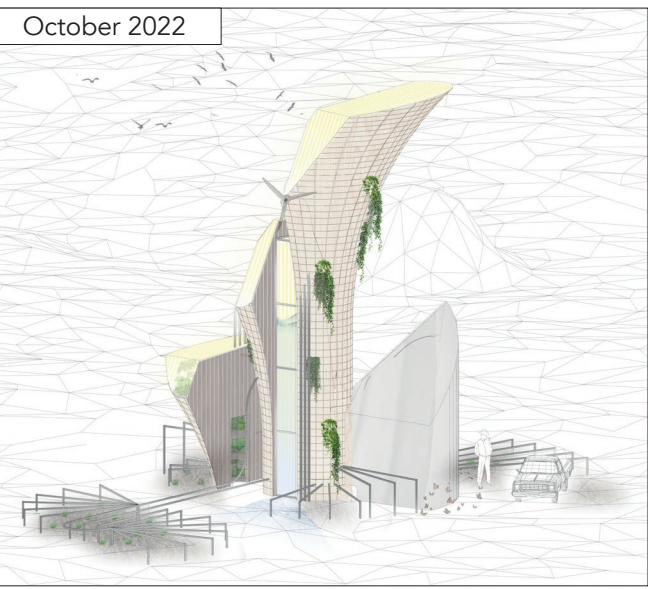

April 2022, vegetables are starting to grow, a new rain collector is added for the plants and to be used for a new plantation area.

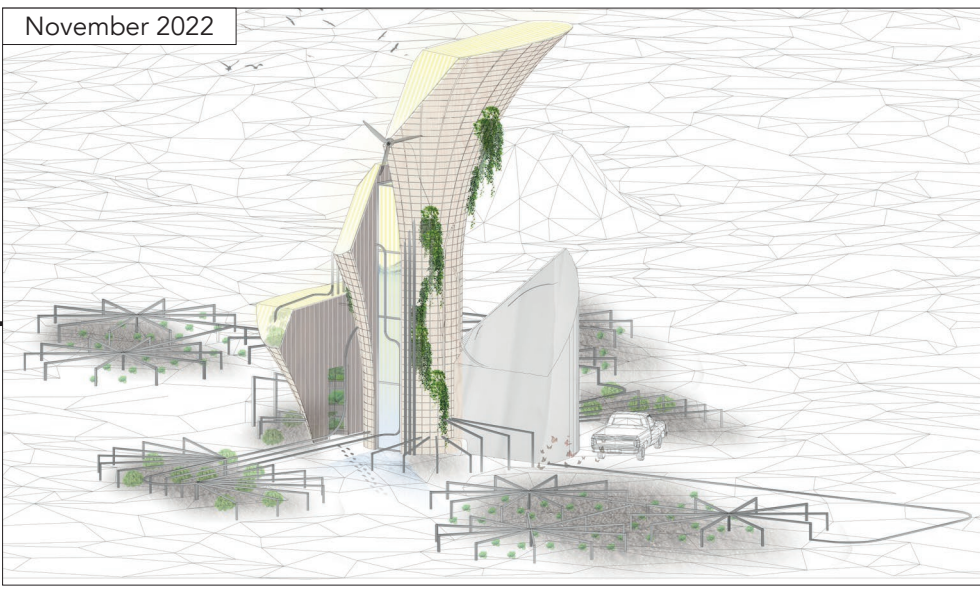

August 2022
One week before the Burning Man Festival, the unit harvested enough water for 1 500 persons for seven days.

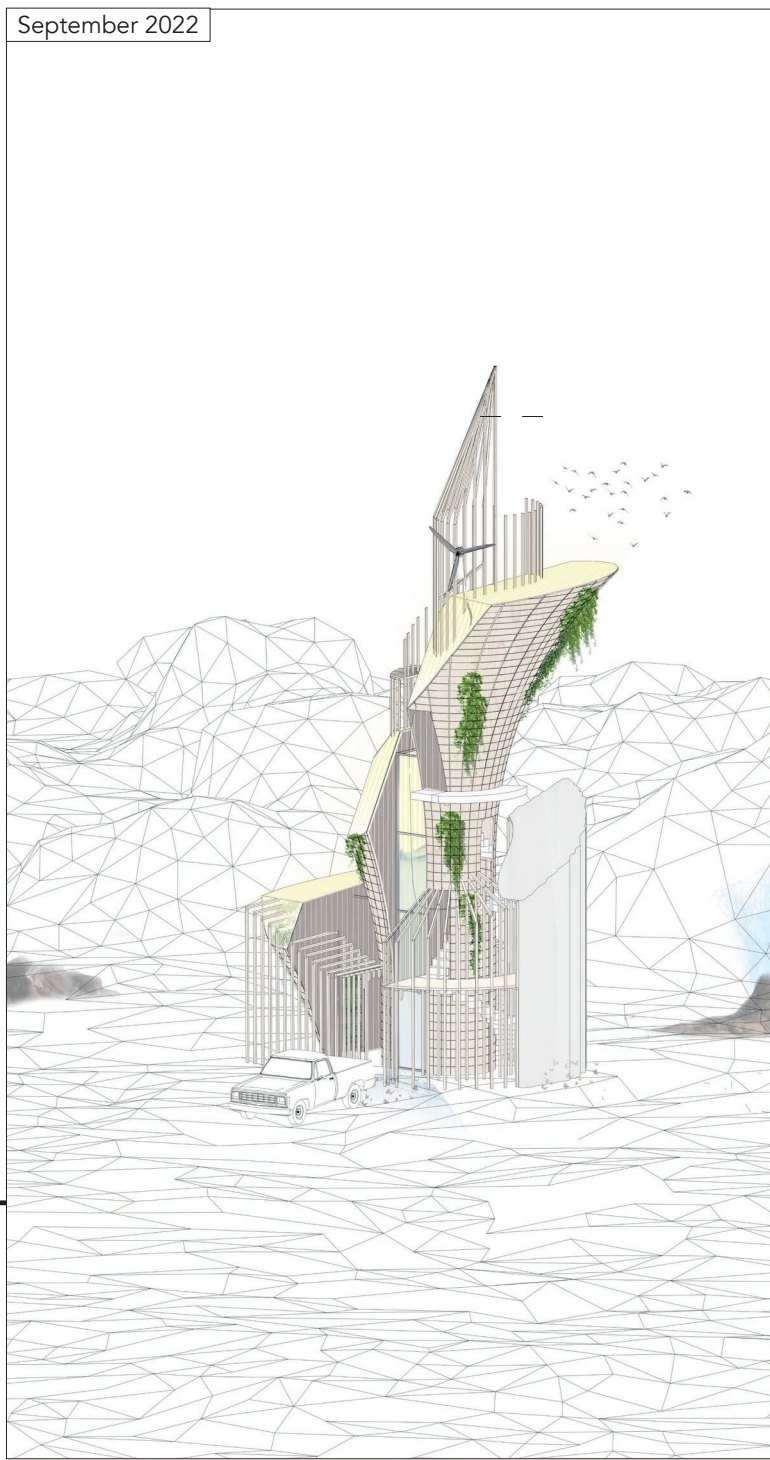

January 2022
January 2020, this unit is placed on an area that seems fertile.

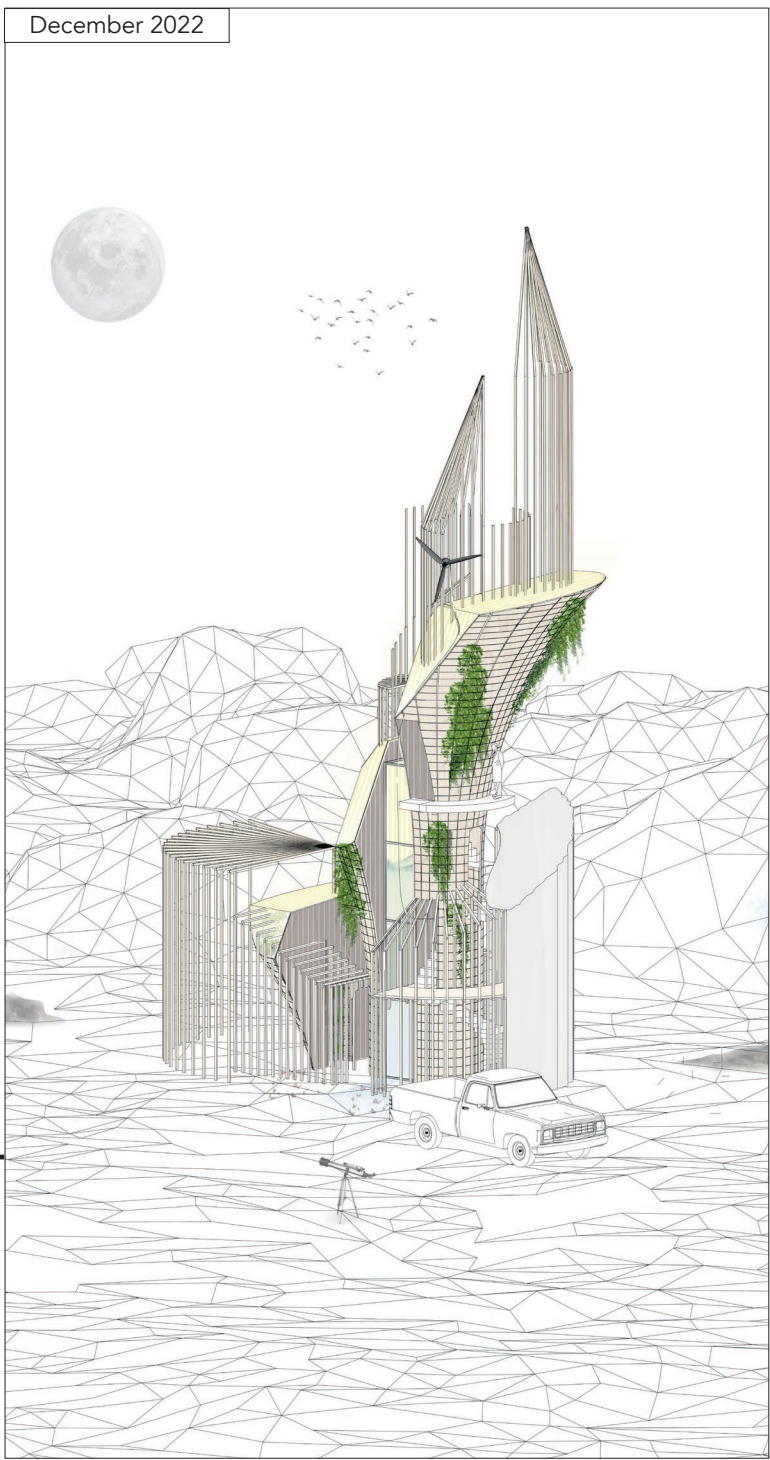

October 2022
In October, Jean, wandering around in search of some new landscapes, is intrigued by this structure.

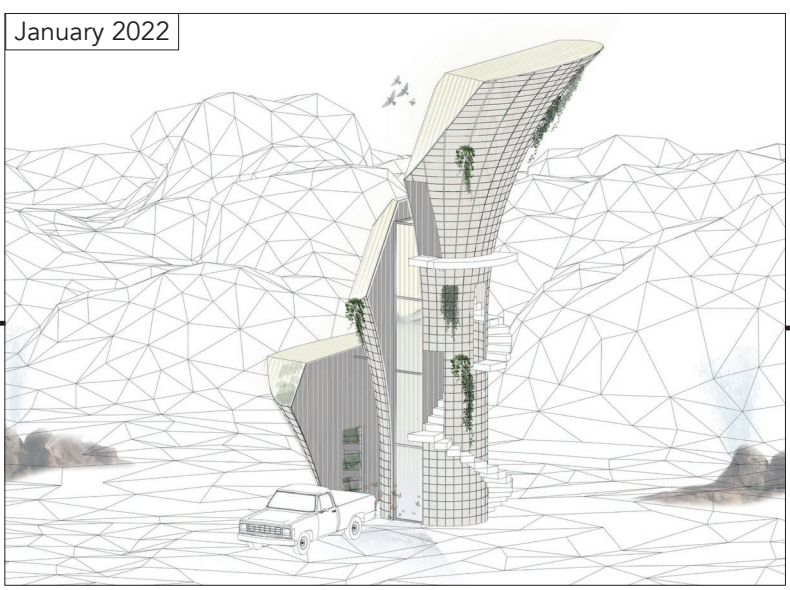

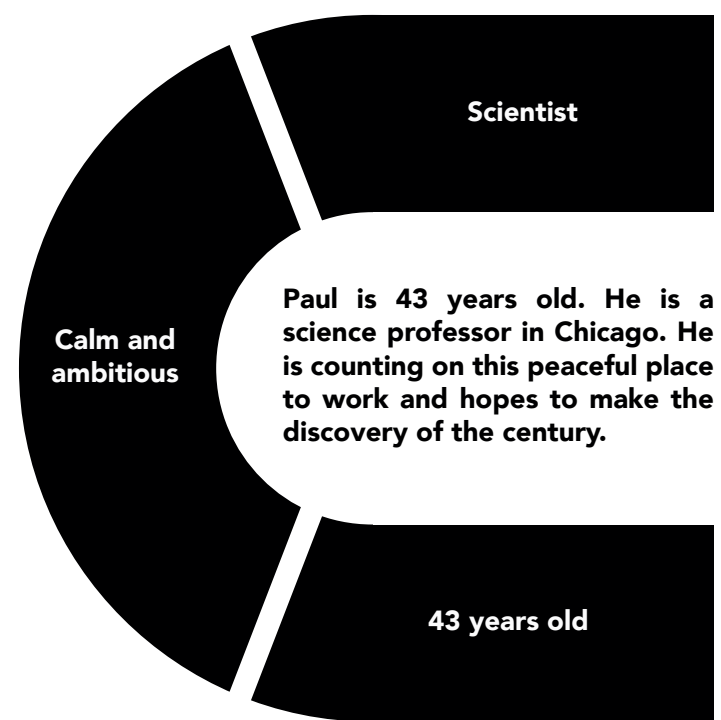

November 2022
His plants grow quickly around this unit. He decides to place some new plantation areas to increase his production.

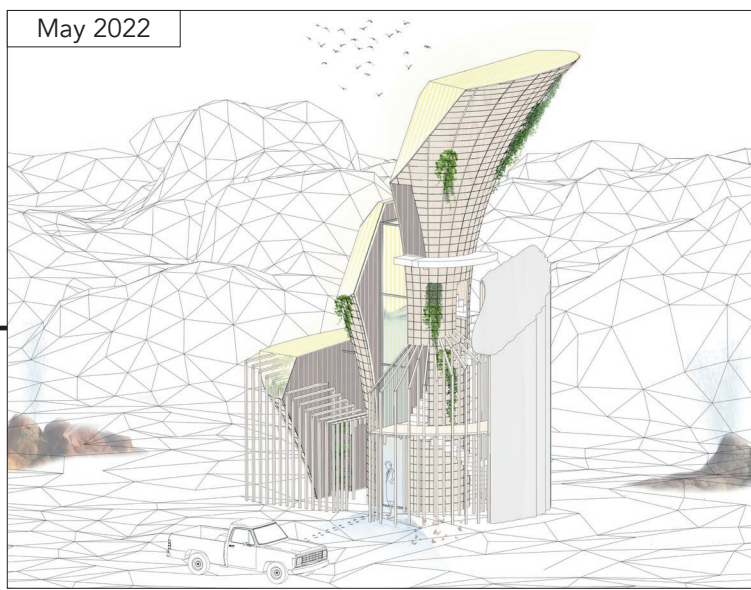

September 2022
Paul also decides to observe the sky for a nother research project, so he is building higher.

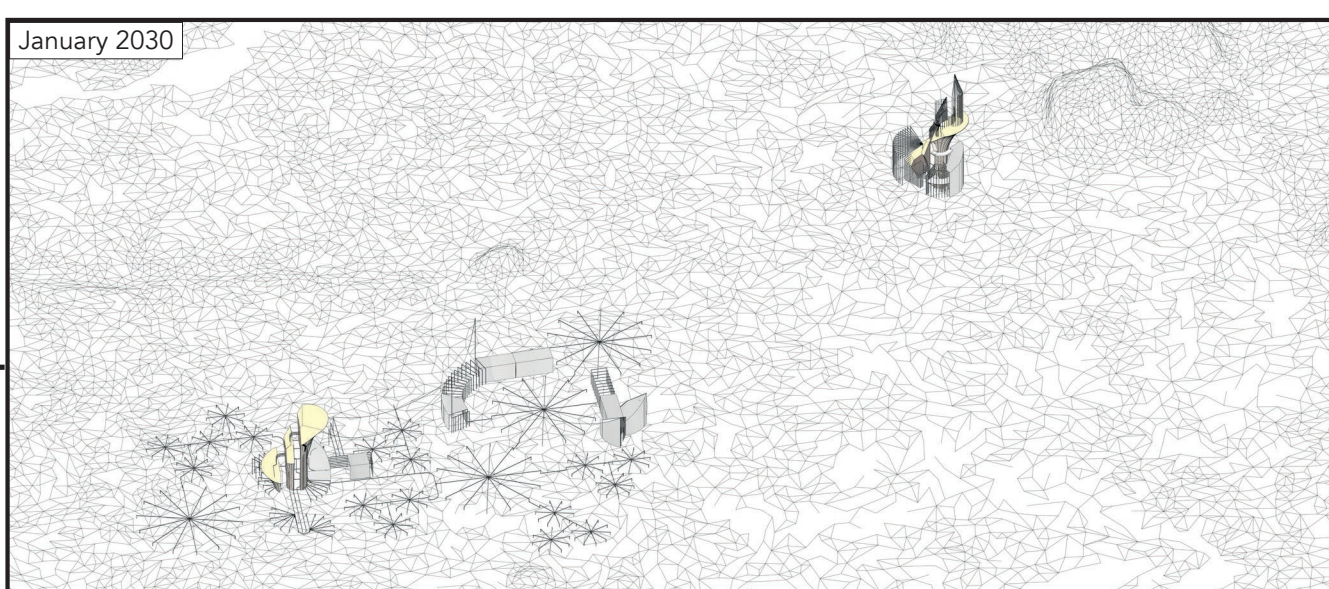

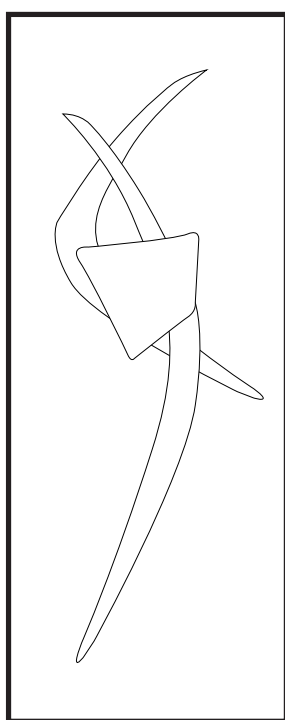

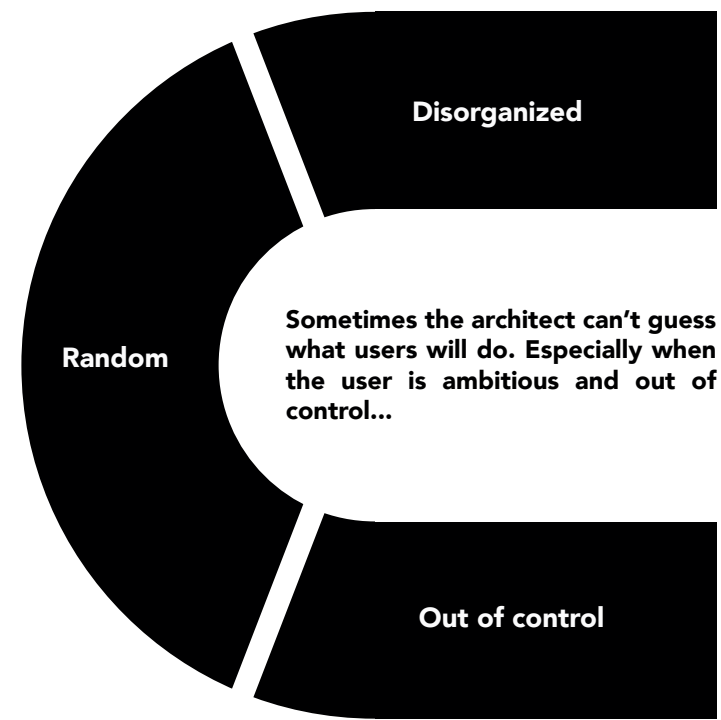

December 2022
Paul is well-established. But, it's almost time to go. He prefers not to dismantle his home in order to come back one day.

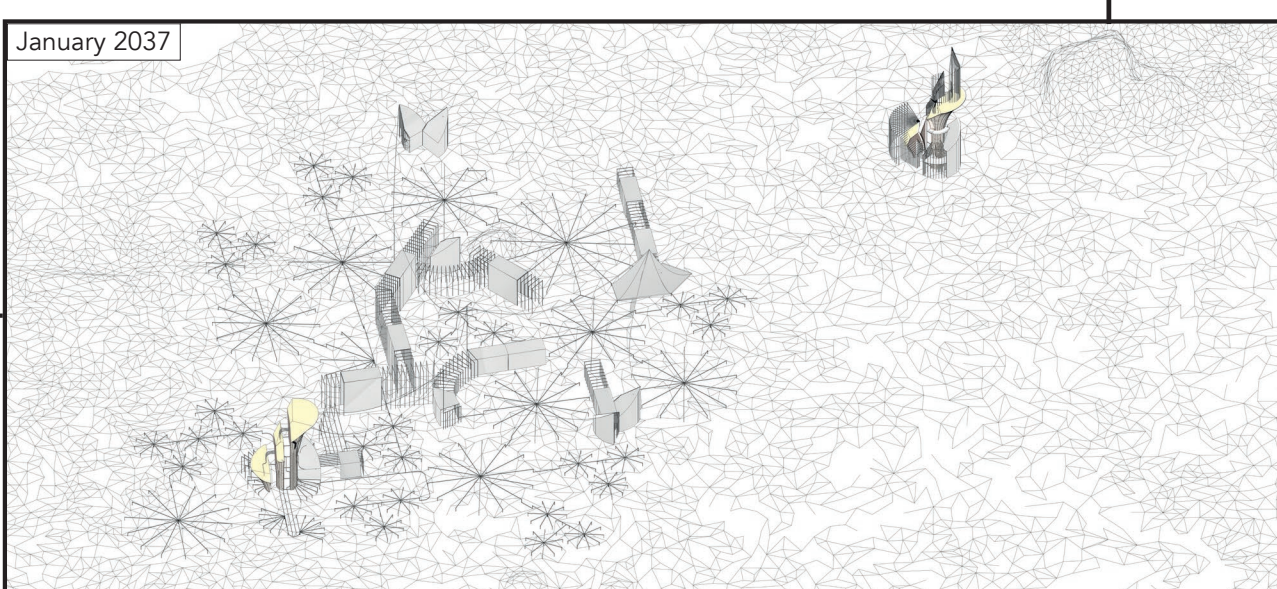

January 2020, a scientist landed at the unit looking for a spot for his upcoming research work on geysers.

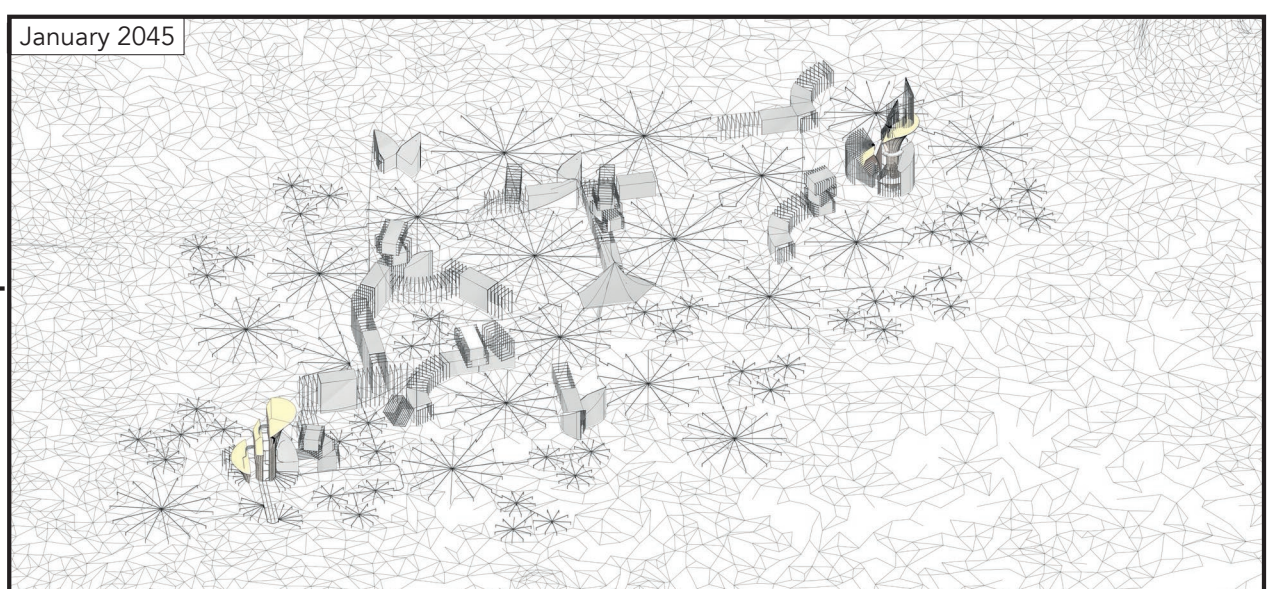

May 2022
Paul is building his house, he prepared all of the wooden cleats he needs.

January 2030
January 2020, Jean is very happy of this new land. The soil is perfect for his plants. He also invited some friends.

January 2037
January 2037, Jean and his friends are producing more and more vegetables. Their exploitation is growing. However, the scientist noticed a different behaviour coming from geysers.

January 2045
January 2045, Jean and his friends left the settlement: the land wasn't so fertile at the end. Some new people took the farmer's houses and the whole area is now out of control.