

ECOSOCIAL GENERATOR

LAGI 2023 MANNHEIM

The installation aims to be a place where collective stories and social performances can create a new link between nature and its inhabitants.

In our years of experience as architects working on public projects, we observed that the spaces with the most significant deterioration, abandonment, and vandalism were those where people had no emotional bond with or with their community. And perhaps it could be through art and the generation of new rituals-practices where community cohesion could be given, putting itself before contemporary narcissism.

The project will be divided into 5 main areas to recognize, revisit, feel and occupy space in different ways through different activities, using the moving body and structure to create clean energy for the community.
