The Sun Flower

The more the members of a society are connected, the more they learn from each other and they flourish. From the beginning of the designing process, one of our principles of the design was, gathering people with each other and letting them experience like they are embraced by a big umbrella like a hug. Also, the role of beauties, attraction and of course the energy that have to be produced, is considered. The shading design inspiration was taken from the substrate and an attempt was made to visually design a sculpture in harmony with the visual aspect of the park, so the modules are currently like flowers placed in the park and called "The sun flower" as it tracks sunlight.

This design is completely modular and scalable and can be adapt to the situations. It could be used as a single structure in a private area or sitting together and provide a vast semi-open area to serve as a public area.
