

USER INFORMATION

People come to a park to relax, unwind, have peace and be one with nature. This particular design captures a person's emotion/mood when looking at it far or close. It adds more to what the landscape of the park already offers, tranquillity, aesthetics and peace effect. People can simply come to the park to meditate, with the land art flower generator gracefully withering in the background.

It can be made in different sizes/scale and placed ascending or descending order depending how the park entrance and exit will be designed. Preferably placed around the park and alongside pavement walkways and next to benches/seats
